Students admitted to a French institution of higher education are subject to a fee known as the CVEC*, which helps to finance on campus programs that enhance the student experience. Here is everything you need to know about this new annual fee (€90).

The CVEC was adopted in March 2018 under a new law on “Student Orientation and Success.” Its purpose is to improve student services, specifically in the areas of social life, health, culture, and athletics. The funds raised through the CVEC program will finance activities (like health care, cultural events...) whose primary beneficiaries are students. The CVEC applies to French and foreign students enrolling for a degree program in a public or private institution of higher education in France.

*CVEC is for «Contribution Vie Etudiante et de Campus» (Student and Campus Life Contribution)
Not subject to the CVEC are the following categories of students:

- Students enrolling in technical certificate programs (brevet de technicien supérieur, BTS), students pursuing an undergraduate art degree (diplôme des métiers d’art, DMA), and students in postsecondary accounting programs offered in secondary schools
- Students in continuing education programs paid for by an employer
- Exchange students in programs governed by an agreement between a home institution abroad and a host institution in France. Such students are not officially considered to be enrolled

⚠️ Even if you are exempt from the cvec, you must register at www.cvec.etudiant.gouv.fr
⚠️ The cvec requirement is entirely separate from other requirements pertaining to the french medical insurance system (sécurité sociale)
THE CVEC MAY BE PAID

ONLINE OR IN CASH

OUR TIPS

MOTIVATION – PART 1

Via the «Etudes en France» platform, you will be asked to enter your motivations for applying for training courses.

Institutions recruit students with good results, but also the most motivated or interesting profiles. Why? University leaders want motivated and diligent students. You need to demonstrate that your training choice is well thought out, not just a quick click on the platform or a default orientation choice.

As any letter of motivation (employment, internship, training...) it is important to talk about yourself, introduce yourself, describe your curriculum and what leads you to enroll in this training.

And then to answer the 2 questions asked by any head of training at the university: why do you want to integrate this training at the university (precisely), and why your profile corresponds to the training you are applying for?
Your cover letter must be constructed to be read in a lightly projective way: show where you come from and where you want to go (you have a project). You must therefore follow a chronology to make your letter and this project as simple as possible. You need to prove your determination, to explain who you are, to talk about your curriculum, your current training and the options you have chosen, your previous experiences (language courses, small jobs, passions, sports, participation in associations...) and what are your qualities that come out of it: autonomy, relational, creativity, responsibility, teamwork, rigour, challenge.

And don’t forget the explanations: You have to make the link between your career path, your qualities and the specific training area + choice of training you have made.

It is important to show that you are familiar with the training chosen, its assets: such as its links with partner companies, the quality of its research, the reputation of its professors (which is often the strength of universities) or others.

Finally, on style, the letter must reflect your personality... the university jury will kindly read your letter. Your enthusiasm and envy expressed in your letter will excuse any mistakes or clumsiness. Despite the necessary proofreading or advice (especially on spelling or grammar) of your close relations or teachers: get help but keep your style.
LETTER OF RECOMMENDATION

What do I need to submit?
No recommendation is required all the time for Licence 1 or PACES applicants but one letter is strongly recommended.

Who to select to write my letters?
Letters of recommendation are recommended and should be submitted by individuals familiar with the applicant and his/her work. Recommendations provide the admissions committees with additional information relating to an applicant’s ability to perform in an academic and/or work setting. Recommendations must be submitted online and must be translated into French if asked.

For applicants who are still in high school, in college, in graduate school or have less than one year of work experience, recommendations from academic members are encouraged.
